What is an Apprenticeship?

An Apprenticeship is a mix of real work and learning. Apprentices earn a wage and gain experience whilst working towards a number of qualifications. An Apprenticeship follows a Level 2 programme and can lead onto an Advanced Apprenticeship which is a Level 3 programme.

Overview

Retail is a dynamic and evolving career choice; three million people are employed across the UK with this sector creating more jobs than any other sector over the last five years.

The number of people employed in the UK retail workforce is forecast to increase by 6% over a ten year period (between 2007 and 2017).

Retail is a developing industry that is both interesting and accommodating, irrespective of age or skill levels.

Retail jobs can be financially rewarding, offering training and skills development opportunities. The average wage of a retail sales assistant is £11-15k with that of a retail sales supervisor being in the region of £15-20k.
