

PAT Certificate Competency Course

In-Service Inspection and Testing of Electrical Equipment

Who is the course for?

Your organisation has a legal requirement to ensure the safe use and maintenance of any portable appliance used on its premises. This means all electrical equipment in the workplace (whether owned by your employer or not) which plugs into a wall or socket has to be tested to ensure its safety - electric fans, kettles, computers, printers, TV/videos and microwaves, amongst many others. If you are involved in the upkeep of these portable electrical appliances you need to make sure you stay within the law.

Our PAT test training course provides certification of competence in PAT testing; this ensures compliance with the requirements of the HSE. Our course also fully complies with the IEE code of practice and is CITB approved.

What is the course about?

The legal requirements for the maintenance of electrical equipment
The construction and classification of electrical equipment

At the end of the course you will also be able to:

- identify different types of test instruments
- perform inspection and testing
- determine frequencies of electrical maintenance and complete meaningful records

There is a course-based practical assessment and you will receive a certificate of attendance when you successfully complete the course.

Are there any course requirements? No.

Do I need to bring anything? No.

Are there any other costs? No.
